ISSUED TO:

---

Kindness is being a good person in your world, to your world and to other people in your world* .

Helping someone is kindness – especially when you offer help before being asked for help

Your real life example:

---

Sharing is kindness to every other person in your world – including your brothers, sisters, friends, relatives, and new people you meet and especially sharing with someone you do not particularly like.

Your real life example:

---

---

Kindness is never doing anything unpleasant to others

Your real life example:

---

---

Kindness is never taking more than your fair share

– including a seat, food, space...anything.

Your real life example:

---

---

Kindness is not pointing out or making fun of someone's flaws

– a birth defect or scar, or disability or age.

Your real life example:

Kindness is respecting where you are

- Not giggling in church
- Not fidgeting in church
- Not talking in church, a theater, school classroom, or when someone older is talking.
- Not using a cellphone in church, a theater, school classroom, or when someone is talking face to face to you. (When you are old enough to drive, not using a cellphone while driving is plain good sense.)
